Foreword

Our years at St. Xavier have witnessed many-directioned tugs and pulls as we relentlessly (if at times haphazardly) ground our way through the "formative years." Undoubtedly we can all recall times when we chafed at the academic bit but we came to accept the trials, as well as the triumphs, as all part of the grand process of getting an education. In the remoteness of the future, recollections of the events of the high school years seem to grow fonder, if perhaps less vivid. This yearbook is devoted to the rewarding task of keeping those memories ever fresh in our minds.

Dedication

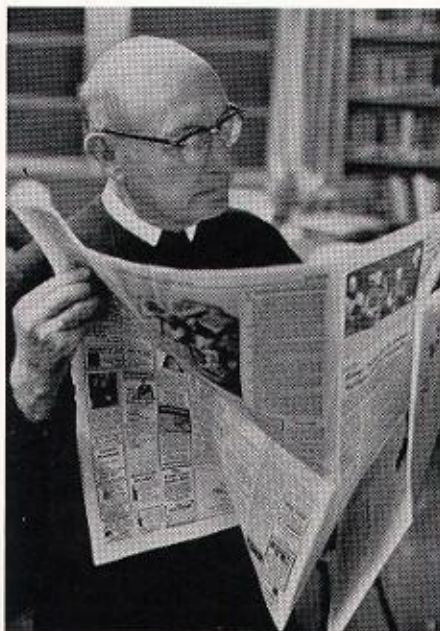

"A teacher affects eternity; he can never tell where his influence stops."

Many qualities are evident in an outstanding teacher—unselfishness and dedication, wisdom and understanding. Student at St. Xavier need look no further for such a man than Brother Columba.

His teaching career began in 1915, soon after beginning his life as a Xaverian Brother. Though he has taught in several other schools, St. Xavier has been his home for a total of twenty-three years. During these years, whether in coaching teams, teaching in the classroom, or helping students in need of advice or encouragement, Brother has helped St. Xavier to preserve the ideals and achieve the goals of the Xaverian Brothers.

We feel especially proud, then, that as we mark the centennial year of St. Xavier, we can also celebrate the golden jubilee of a teacher who has been so much a part of the school's tradition. To this end the class of '64 dedicates this yearbook to Brother Columba with heartfelt thanks and best wishes.

The Centennial Story . . . a Proud Past

Conditions for the Brothers steadily progressed, and in 1863 they founded St. Aloysius "Select" School—the beginning of the St. X we know today. In 1864 the Brothers moved to their fourth home in Louisville, this time on Fourth St. It was here that St. Aloysius School was renamed St. Xavier's Institute. Bro. Philip tells of his reaction to the change:

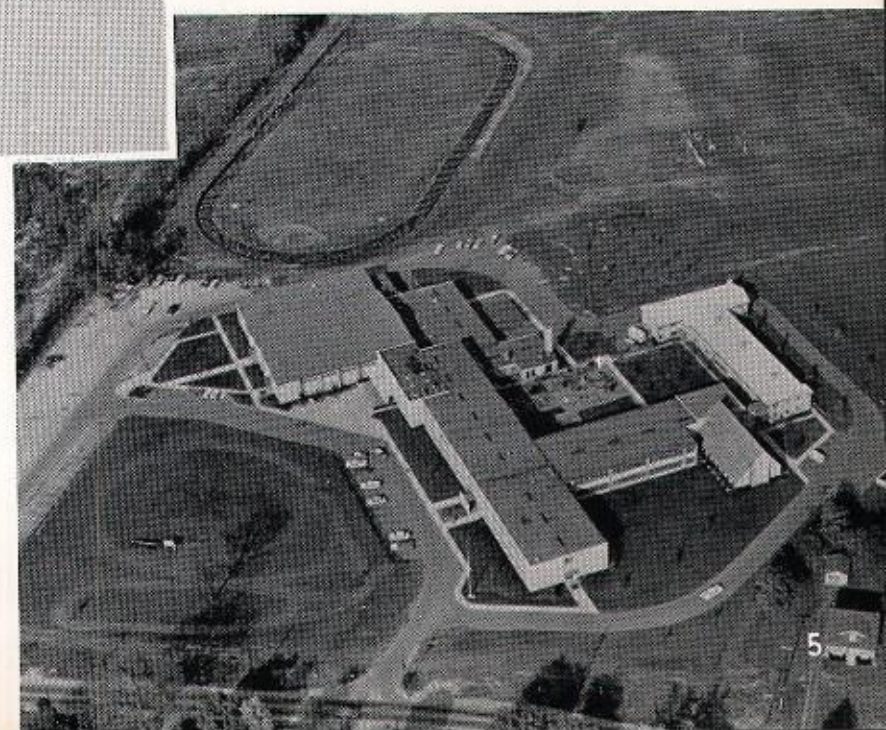

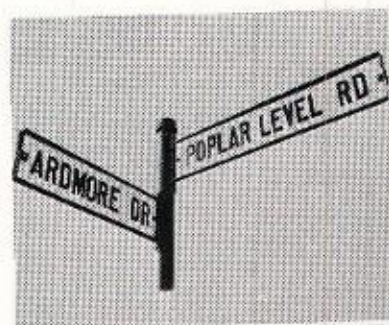

"The community of seventeen moved from Green St. to Fourth St. on the eve of the Assumption, Aug. 14, 1864. Oh! how happy we were. Everything was in our favor: in the center of the city, finest street, fine surroundings, large house, on a lot 70' x 200', gas and water, no oratory, but something better than all—a beautiful chapel with the Blessed Sacrament."

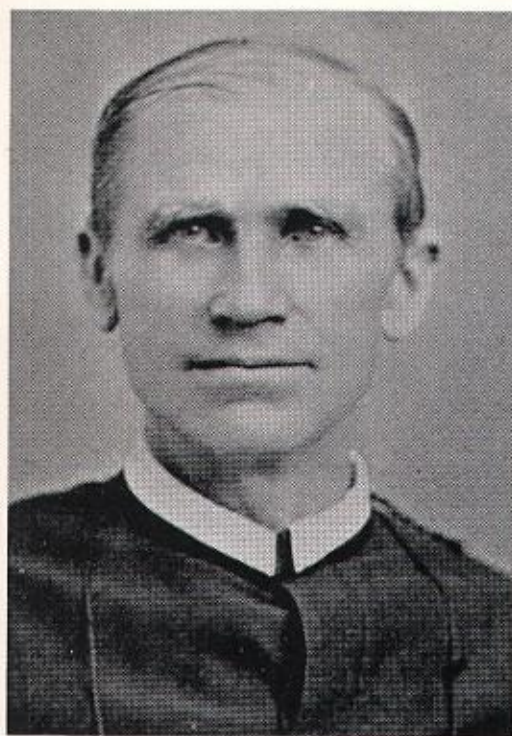

When St. Xavier officially opened in September of 1864, there were seven subjects offered to the students: catechism, Bible history, geography, bookkeeping, algebra, geometry and French. Such studies as calculus, physics or chemistry were not to be introduced for many years.

The Xaverian Brothers landed for the first time in America in New York on Aug. 4, 1854. That was to be the beginning of a long and prosperous life for them in this country, a life which was to be considerably brightened by the rise of St. Xavier High School of Louisville as one of the nation's outstanding schools.

By Aug. 16 of that same year the Brothers had arrived in Louisville. The first home of the Xaverians in this city was St. Patrick's on 13th St. Immaculate Conception was to be their second. The conveniences of comfortable modern living that we take so much for granted was not part of their lot. From a journal kept by old Bro. Philip we listen to one man's comment on their situation:

"We had no such luxuries as gas, toilets or baths. Candles and coal oil lamps were used for lighting purposes. Small stoves for heating apparatus. The water supply was in two cisterns—the rain water had to be carried to the bath. For drinking water we had to get the supply from the public street-pumps."

or milk (called 'mush'). It was a very popular dish."

Neither was the school year a short one:

"In 1865 we opened school on the first Monday in August . . . we closed on June 30th."

As the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" faded into the past, new chapters began to be written in the chronicals. By 1870 the Brothers had taken over nine parochial schools in the city as well as the "Institute." St. X was the smallest of their schools with an enrollment of 60; St. Boniface was the largest with 575 boys. It was that same year that saw the beginning of the "General Competitions" at St. X: the six best boys from each of the Brothers' nine schools were tested in reading, 'sums,' grammar, penmanship and composition.

The chronicals note that on Feb. 7, 1870, the young scholars were given a half-day free to see the opening of the "Ohio Bridge." The carelessness of Mrs. O'Leary's cow in Chicago was the big news at the opening of the school year in 1871. But news of a more somber sort sent

. . . like one big hospital" was the way Bro. Philip described the city of Louisville during those hectic days. Thousands upon thousands of Civil War casualties were treated here. School, however, went on with a "business-as-usual" attitude.

"Food was scarce and expensive. Instead of coffee we had to use parched or roasted rye—nicknamed "Lincoln Coffee." The average meal consisted of bread with molasses, or cornmeal seasoned with molasses

PROSPECTUS OF St. Xavier's College

THIS INSTITUTION is a Classical, English and Commercial College, conducted by the Xaverian Brothers, under the auspices of the Right Rev. Denis O'Donoghue, D.D., Bishop of Louisville. It was established in 1864, chartered by an act of the Legislature of Kentucky in 1872, and rechartered in 1890, with power to confer all Collegiate Degrees.

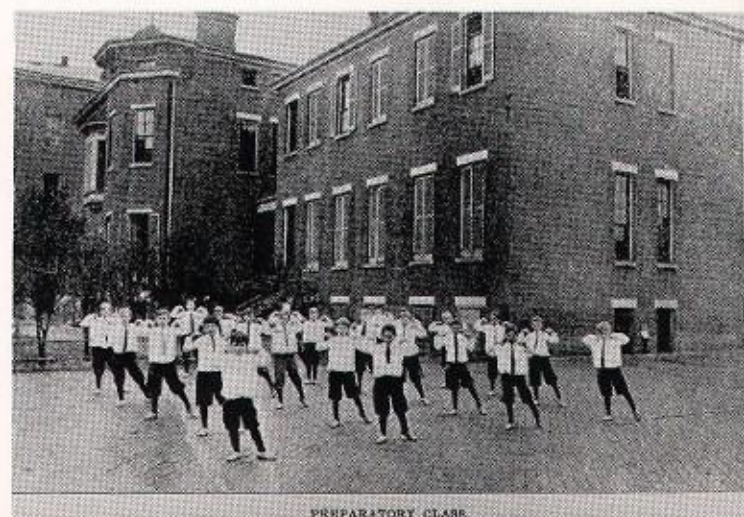

The College is situated on Broadway, near Second Street, one of the most beautiful portions of Louisville. Four lines of street cars make it easy of access from all parts of the city. The grounds occupied by the college are a square in length. The College building is beautiful in architecture and large and commodious. It contains sixteen recitation rooms, a business apartment, arranged for office and banking work, a physical and chemical laboratory, an auditorium with a seating capacity of about fourteen hundred, a gymnasium completely equipped with modern apparatus, a swimming pool, baths and all the other accessories of a first-class college.

OBJECT.

The College has experienced fifty years' uninterrupted prosperity, has steadily advanced, and it now offers every facility to the young men of Louisville and vicinity to receive a thorough collegiate education without being compelled to leave home, thus allowing parents to be the school into mourning, when on Dec. 21 of that year, Theodore James Ryken, the humble and saintly founder of the Brothers, went to meet his God.

On New Year's Eve of '72 pipe-smoking was introduced among the brothers when the superior bought a dozen white clay pipes for $.10. Ten cents was big money in those days . . . how dimes have changed!

PREPARATORY CLASS

ST. XAVIER'S COLLEGE.

The first portraits of the graduates were not taken until 1874. But one interesting item occurred on Sept. 3, 1883. The absentee records tell us that many were afflicted with sudden but brief illnesses. The fact that "Barnum's Circus" came to town that day was probably no more than a mere coincidence!

In '84 the year of the Ohio River flood, the School day went from 8:30 to 1:00 with a short recess at 10:00. It was on July 9th of that same year when the Alumni Society started. It elected St. Xavier's first grad, Francis A. Mann, as its president.

The young school boys of those days heard their elders talking about names like Carnegie, Rockefeller and Vanderbilt, and of the "yellow journalism" of Pulitzer and Hurst. A man named Edison was soon to begin toying with the idea of light without flame, and a Mr. Ford had some crazy notions of a buggy without a horse.

Cramped in their Fourth St. location and unable to expand, the Brothers bought the Newcomb estate in 1890. This property extended from Broadway to Jacob St. On Jacob, a brick stable was torn down and replaced by a building which contained eight classrooms. But the gaunt old man with the scythe labeled "1900" was unceremoniously ushered out by a bouncing baby replete with banner proclaiming the arrival not only of a new century, but of what has become known as the "Good Years."

By 1900 a new building appeared on the lawn of the Newcomb estate. This was the new St. Xavier, and it included a gymnasium and a swimming pool in the basement. These were eventually replaced by science laboratories and a cafeteria. This original building was a rather impressive one, consisting of sixteen recitation rooms, eight on each floor. On the third floor was the auditorium with a capacity of 1200; it was the largest in Louisville. This, too, was eventually replaced by classrooms when further expansion became necessary.

The schoolboy who set out for 118 W. Broadway wore knickerbockers and carried his books slung over his shoulder with a leather strap. His mother could buy a shiny brass-rimmed bed for $3. His father went about the house all day grumbling about something called the "3% income tax." The newspapers spoke about the Boxer Rebellion, the Big Stick and Bigger Business. The North Pole became an important part of his map, and he heard many stories about the different ways a hatchet could be used when the names of two young ladies, Carrie Nation and Lizzie Borden, appeared in the newspapers.

Until 1909 athletics played no part in the school life at St. Xavier. That year, however, a baseball team was organized when the principal, Bro. James, finally gave his sanction to sports. Football, basketball and others were soon to follow. Soon the want of a proper place to practice and play basketball led to the building of a gym in 1915 on the site of the old school building. It was the biggest and best in the city. Future Tiger athletes were to make St. X the home of champions. In 1926 X won its first state basketball title, defeating Danville, 26-13. Since that year the school has amassed a staggering total of fifty-six championships and two National Catholic crowns.

However the real purpose of a high school was not forgotten, and St. X continued to take seven-league strides in the field of education. The arrival of a new principal, Bro. Benjamin, in 1917, heralded some changes. First he made Latin, which had been optional, compulsory, and thus established St. Xavier as a strictly classical school. Secondly, he decreed that the school would function for high school students only; before it had included every grade from the primary to college level.

Then came Jack Dempsey and Mary Pickford and a flying machine known as the "Spirit of St. Louis." All the students were humming "Over There," and soon each had pinpointed in his geography book a place called Chateau Thierry.

But there were several other "firsts" for the school in this decade. In June 1924, the Tiger, the St. X yearbook, was issued. The school entered into interscholastic debates for the first time in 1926. Two years later the Xavier News went to press for the first time.

"It Ain't Gonna Rain No More" was heard by Charlie Chaplin, Barney Google, Al Capone and Babe Ruth. Jazz was popular. So was bobbed hair. And "So's your old man!" And "Workers of the world, unite!" One thing that wasn't overpopular occurred on Oct. 24th, 1929, when the "Roaring Twenties" went out with a whimper.

In 1940 the Tiger Boosters came into existence. Their special aim: to improve athletics and athletic facilities. Bro. Edward Joseph organized the Band Parents Club that year. And the annex, disrespectfully known as the "dog-house," was built. So was a new field house. On June 7th of that year we had the first Senior Prom.

At the start of the school year in '41, the Brothers' quarters became so cramped that they purchased the former Conservatory of Music on 720 S. Brook St. for their living quarters. The school was also overcrowded (1148), so the Brothers used the Cathedral School for two freshman classes. These alternated every twenty days with two other freshman classes so that they would not lose the St. X spirit.

ST. XAVIER'S FIRST TEAM EVER—1909 TIGERS

Disregarding the protests made by bigots, St. Xavier became the first school in Kentucky history to compete with a colored school. X played Central in football to a 7-7 tie. It was to be the beginning of a long and friendly relationship between the two schools.

Ensign Bob White (class of '39) was in a place called Pearl Harbor on a quiet Sunday morning on Dec. 7th, 1941. He was the first St. X alumnus killed in this second "war-to-end-all-wars." Marine drill sergeants came to St. X for the next few years to drill the Seniors in aeronautics. The Students became as familiar with ration tickets and victory gardens and war bonds, with fireside chats and synthetic rubber, as they were with the initials "G.I." Their knowledge of geography extended to places called Corregidor, the Coral Sea, Dunkirk, the Aleutians, El Alemein, Normandy and Hiroshima.

After more than three quarters of a century of trying to supply Louisville's needs for Catholic higher education, St. X welcomed the arrival of Flaget on Sept. 8, 1942. Trinity, DeSales and Bishop David were soon to join the ranks.

While the fuss about the 38° Parallel was going on, St. X was continuing its educational leadership. In 1954 Bro. Thomas More inaugurated the Honor Club, Career Night, College Night and the Testing Program. With the old school falling apart at the seams, Bro. Thomas carried on the intensive ten-year search for a new home for St. Xavier. The best location possible was found to be on Popular Level Road. Work was begun, and on a warm September day in 1961 the new, modern St. Xavier stood with its arms open, ready to receive new generations of Catholic youth.

Passing into history were the anguished pleas from Hungary and the cries for independence from Africa. The shattering noise of the intercontinental and interplanetary rockets was to be drowned out by the roar of an assassin's gun on a Dallas street.

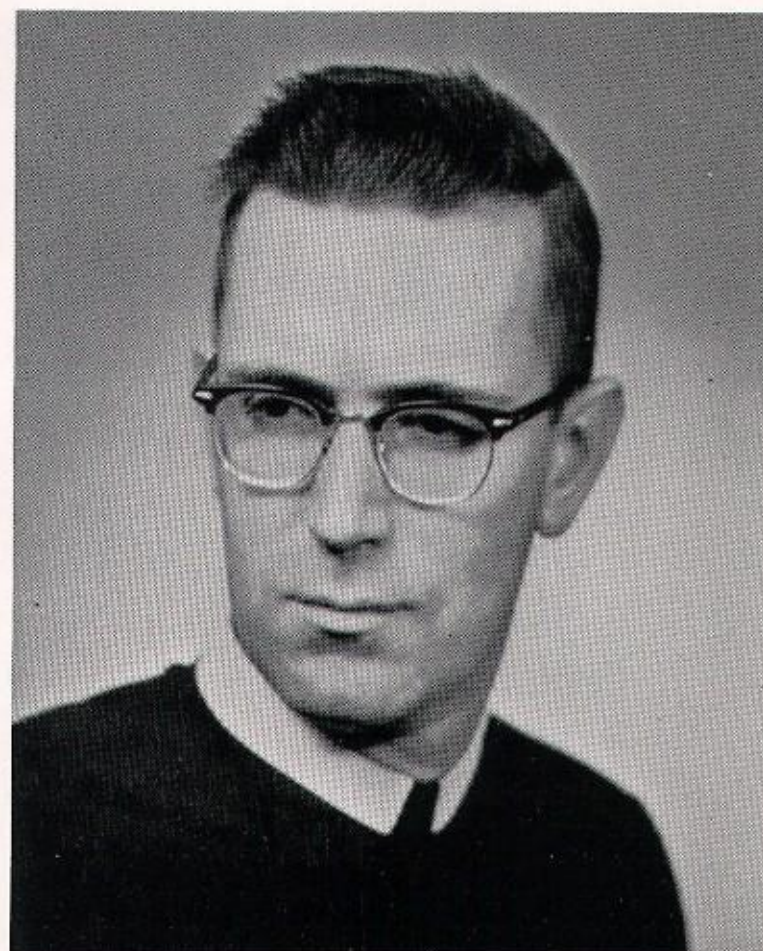

But these are our times, just as much as the Civil War was for the St. Xavier student of 1864. With such a wonderful legacy, St. Xavier has grown from a small school on the corner of 2nd and Broadway to a renowned institution of learning, keeping pace with the rapid growth of the nation. It has grown from a student body of fourteen to that of nearly fourteen hundred. The achievements of this school know no barriers or comparisons. Excellence is pre-eminent and Christian gentlemen are its students. Its alumni number among the greatest men of the state. In short the influence of Xaverian training and the fine tradition of the school have become inseparable from the education of its graduates.

The memoirs and heritages of this century are ours, but they will only be called ours if we, too, as the others before us, build upon them and nourish the hopes and achievements of the next century of education at St. Xavier High School.

Senior Class Will and Prophecy

Tom Cecil, Senior Class President: "Speaking for the class of 1964, I would like to will the class of 1965 the spirit of cooperation and true friendship which has made our class the finest ever at St. X. In addition I would like to will the great 'Spirit of St. X' to all underclassmen; it is this spirit which makes us different from all other schools and which is the key to our future successes in life. May the class of 1965 and all those following it continue in the tradition which we and those before us have tried to build up, so that when we send our own children to St. Xavier, it will still have the greatness it has always had."

Fearless Forecasts

Butch Kaufman will be a reducing expert and live on the fat of the land.
Jim Quillman will be a magician . . . he can turn anything into an argument.
Joe Bellucci will tell hair-raising stories to bald men.
Bobby Gephart will be a sculptor—or at least a chiseler.
Charlie Zimmerman will prove that an atheist is a man who has no invisible means of support.
Dave Kremer will invent a device to make the breaks get tight when the driver does.
Mark Gosney will invent grass that will grow an inch high and then quit.
Dave Williams will play the piano like Paderewski, i.e., use both hands.
Mike Harpring will be a barnacle-scraper.
Gerry Greene will be a tapioca-runner from Acapulco.
Hank Blandford will make striped suits for people who lead checkered careers.
John Rogers will be a cop in Greenwich Village and pound the "Beat."
Larry Meffert will be an awkward butcher (his hands will always be in the weigh).
Louie Smith, will adopt the grindstone as his birthstone.
Mike Zoeller will show the Scotch a new use for worn-out razor blades: they'll shave with them.
Gene Steuerle will start a bakery—if he can raise the dough.
Rocky Graf will sell slightly used tombstones.
Tom Stengel will prove the world is flat . . . or at least that not much of it is on the level.
Richard Berg will have an annual Christmas job: cleaning up after all those reindeer.
Vic Brizendine will be a parking-lot attendant like his friend, Rex Carrs.
Phil Reverman will beat his wife up every morning: he'll get up at 7:00 and she'll get up at 8:00.
Ed Tonini will train seeing-eye fleas for blind cockroaches.
John Hepke will invent a new deodorant called "Vanish": it will make you disappear and cause people to wonder where the odor is coming from.

DAWN'S EARLY BLIGHT

Don Venhoff exhibits a common early morning reaction to school.

The Class Menagerie

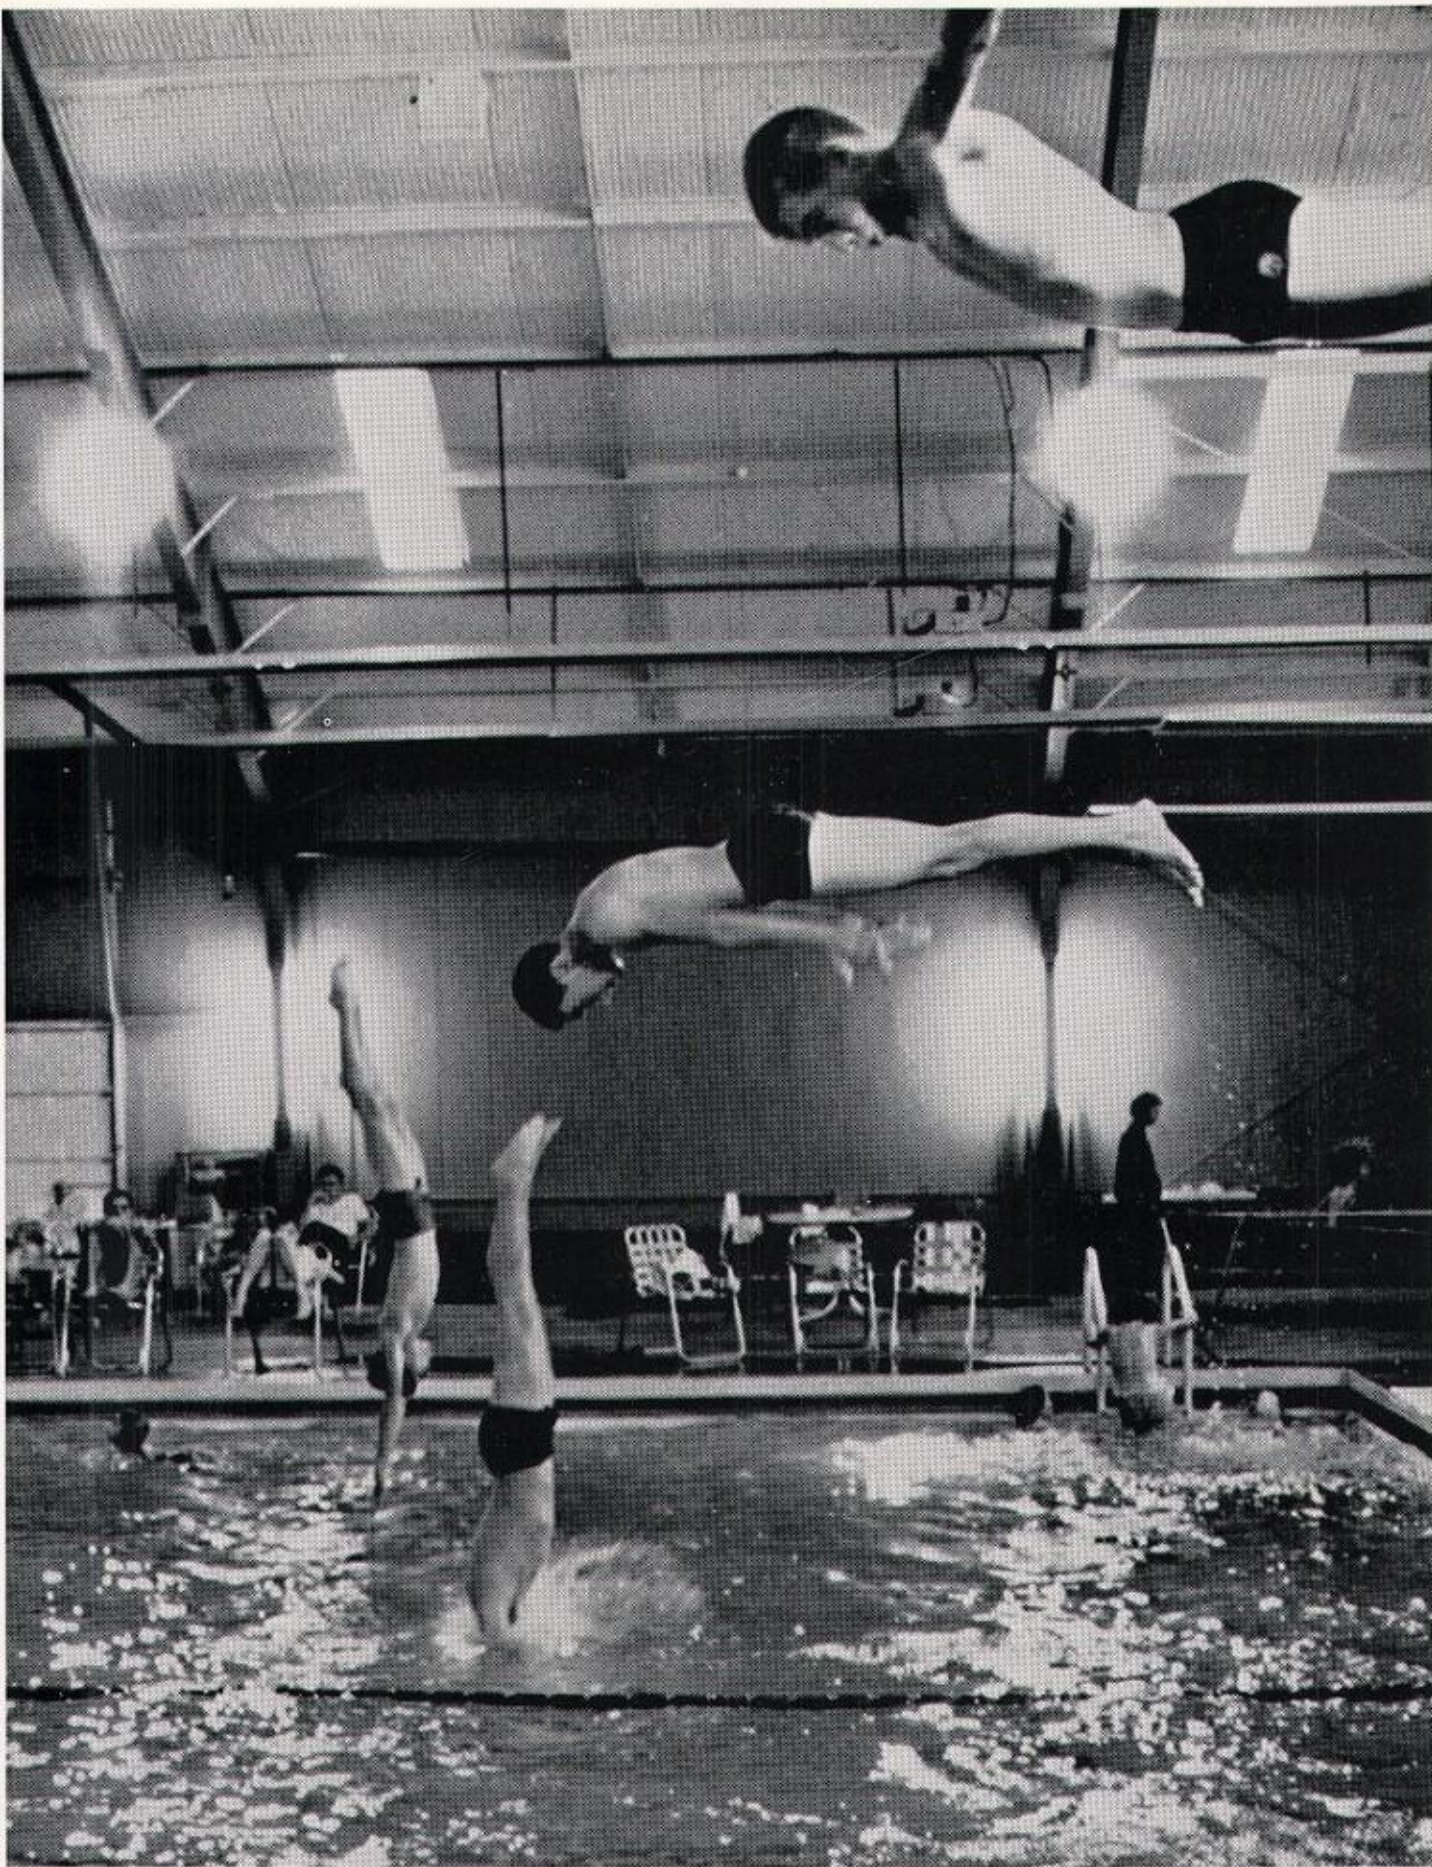

ROAD SHOW

"Decisions, decisions!" murmurs pretty Judy Turner as she and the other seven princesses try to decide which of the hundred-car caravan to the Flaget game will win the prizes.

For the Record

SUMMARY

The '63 edition of the Tiger football team did not win a single championship, but they will long be remembered as one of the most spirited elevens ever to take the gridiron wearing the proud colors of green and gold. Although Coach John Meihaus admitted in a preseason interview that his boys were "pitifully small," he let the world know that he was coaching a bunch of "little battlers" who thrived on hard work and contact. The team finished with a respectable 6-4 record. Dickie Lyons, a fabulous triple-threat junior, sparked the spectacular shotgun offense from his tailback position. The explosive shotgun offense was complemented by an aggressive, hard-hitting defense that specialized in stunts. Combining all these factors, an exciting, spirited and just plain likeable football team was produced—the '63 Tigers.

INDIVIDUAL GAMES

Sept. 7th—In the season opener, the green and gold turned out to be mostly "green." Although the inexperienced Tigers showed flashes of potential greatness here and there, they lost to a fired-up Owensboro team, 21-0. The split-T offense just wouldn't start rolling, and the Tigers had to make the "long ride home."

Sept. 14th—The gridders journeyed south to Nashville to meet perennial football power, Father Ryan. After the Irish drew first blood, John "Buck" Rogers, All-City center, managed to recover a fumble in the Ryan end-zone. However the boys from Ryan retaliated quickly with a 70-yard touchdown sprint. The half ended with Ryan ahead, 13-6. An evenly fought second half produced no score, and the Tigers tasted defeat for the second time in the young season.

Sept. 20th—A night to remember! The St. X Eleven pulled the upset of the year by defeating a powerful Manual team, picked as the best in the state. The new shotgun offense was used for the first time, and the bewildered Crimsons just did not know how to defend against it. Dickie Lyons, David Brown and Steve Bocko led the offense as the boys from X smacked the Big Red, 13-7. Defensive stars were Charlie Ernst, Ron Quick, Don Ridge and Buck Rogers.

Sept. 28th—The Bengals employed a near-perfect defense to skunk the Falcons of Bishop David, 21-0. Both squads made like the pros, throwing the football more often than running with it. Thanks to some pin-point passing by Lyons and Bocko and numerous catches by big Paul Mueller, the Tigers came out on top. David Day led the tough Bengal defense.

Oct. 5th—St. X met East-end rivals Trinity, and for once the Tigers were the favorites. This must have been new to them because they played carelessly in the first half, making foolish errors throughout. The score was deadlocked 7-7 as the Tigers headed for the dressing room at half-time. They came back in great form though, striking for three touchdowns in the final half. Bob Meihaus, Lyons and Mueller led the team to a 20-7 crushing of the Shamrocks.

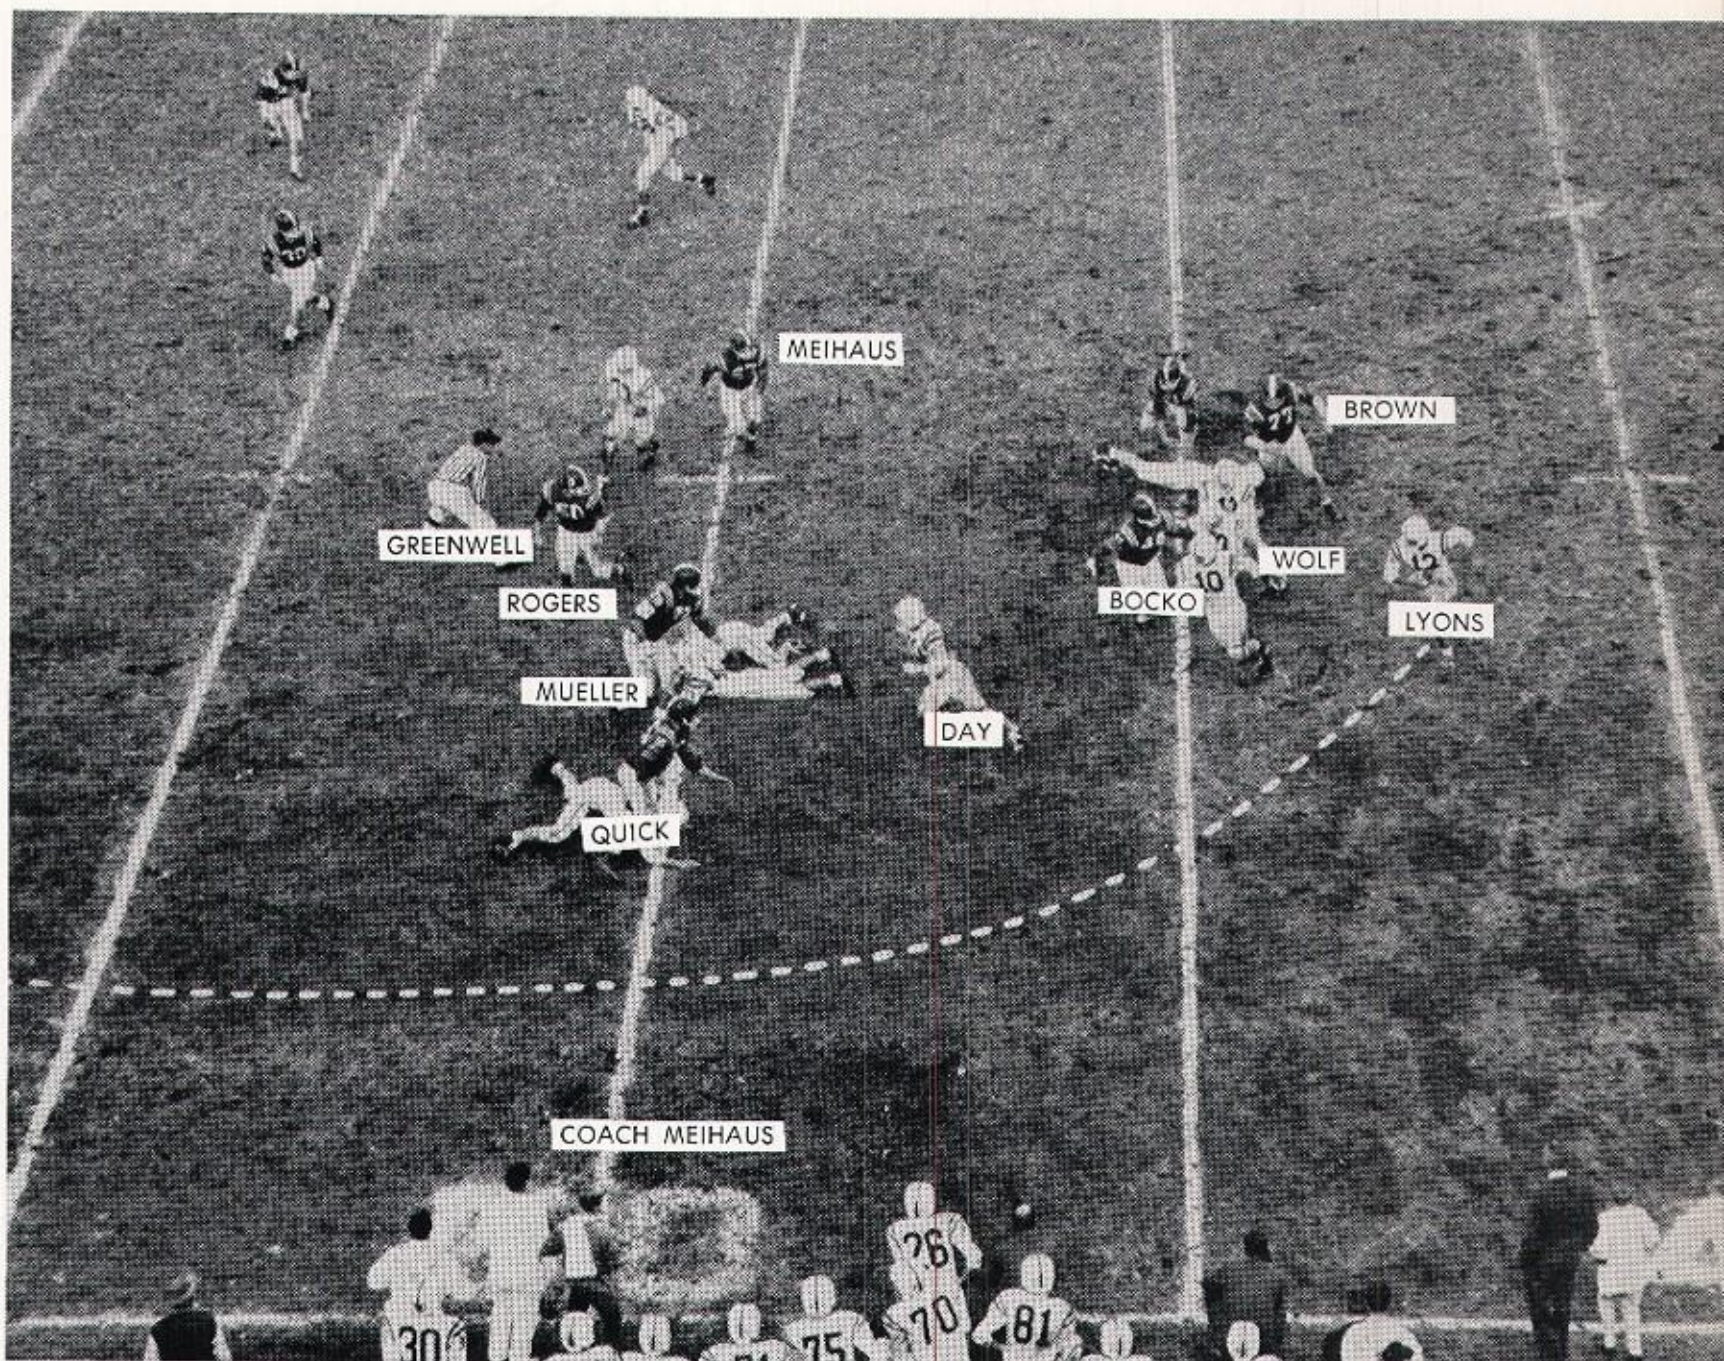

Oct. 12th—The stage was set for the big show. The X-men and the gridders of Male were both undefeated in regional play. The victor would be the likely candidate for city and state championships. Our proud Tigers fought the much larger Bulldogs tooth and nail before bowing, 25-20. Behind at the half, the X-Men forged ahead with just about two minutes left in the game. But the Bulldogs came back with the long bomb. Tiger fans, near to tears, were still proud of the gallant effort given against the eventual State Champs.

Oct. 19th—The Colts of DeSales were really "up" for the game with St. X, and the Bengals had to call on a strong second half to conquer the brown and white, 17-7. Lyons put on a one-man offensive show, scoring all Tiger points by a field goal, two T.D.'s, and two conversions.

Oct. 25th—The night we met the Central Yellowjackets. Central's fast, tricky backs kept the Tigers well occupied the first half. But the Green and Gold came through in brilliant colors once again as we downed Central, 20-8. Lyons showed his great versatility as he scored all Tiger points, as well as punting and passing very effectively. Stunting line-backers Day and Rogers spent a good deal of the evening in the Central backfield.

Nov. 2nd—The Tigers, probably looking ahead to the Big One with the Braves, almost were defeated by a group from across the river, the Providence Pioneers. Their big, burly line nearly put a damper on the heralded St. X offense. With Lyons again scoring all points, the X-men rallied to a 14-7 victory.

Nov. 10th—The last game of the season . . . the battle with arch-rival, Flaget. The contest was played for high stakes, as usual: (1) the Ryken trophy, and (2) the Catholic Championship. Also at stake was the city scoring title. Lyons was having a personal duel with rival halfback, Mike Hansford. Hansford led by three points going into the game. Flaget scored in the first half on a long pass that brought the tremendous crowd to its feet. Shortly thereafter Lyons scored on a beautiful punt-return, but it was nullified because of clipping. The Tigers came within striking range of pay-dirt many times in the second half, but they could not get the ball into the end-zone. The score ended, 7-0, after a great defensive display by both teams.

Basketball

The 1964 St. X basketball team proved that a small experienced squad can still give the big boys trouble. With four regulars back from the 1962-63 team, the Tigers posted an impressive 20-5 work sheet. Under the leadership of Coach Joe Reible, in his third year as Tiger head coach, the Bengals surprised everyone, and they played one of the most demanding schedules in the state.

In no pre-season poll was St. X given a chance at a successful season. In fact the Tigers were ranked out of the top one hundred teams in the state. Nevertheless the team exemplified the true spirit of St. X; as Coach Reible would say, "They really made some noise!" After claiming the championship trophy at the Bowling Green Invitational, the team returned home only to lose in the semi-finals of the L.I.T. to the tourney's eventual winner, Male. The next weekend, the Tigers avenged this loss on Tommy Hagan's clutch overtime shooting. At this point in the season the Tigers found themselves among the leaders in both state and regional rankings.

As Coach Reible predicted early in the season, the 1963-64 Bengals shot probably the most phenomenal field-goal percentage (46.7) in the history of Tiger basketball.

Season in Review

COACH JERRY DENNY

The '64 edition of the Tigers went through another undefeated season and finished third in the State. However, there was no doubt that ours was the best team in the state as we defeated the eventual state champs three times in regular season competition. Even though we won the regional crown, we had to leave behind a 9.9 sprinter and an 880 relay team that had bettered the State record.

Among the season's highlights we find:

St. X won the Trinity Invitational for 3rd year in row;

St. X won the 1st Atherton Invitational;

St. X won the Catholic Invit. for 4th year in row;

St. X won 2 victories and set record in Mason-Dixon games;

St. X won second straight Regional;

St. X won third place in the State.

RECORD-MAKER

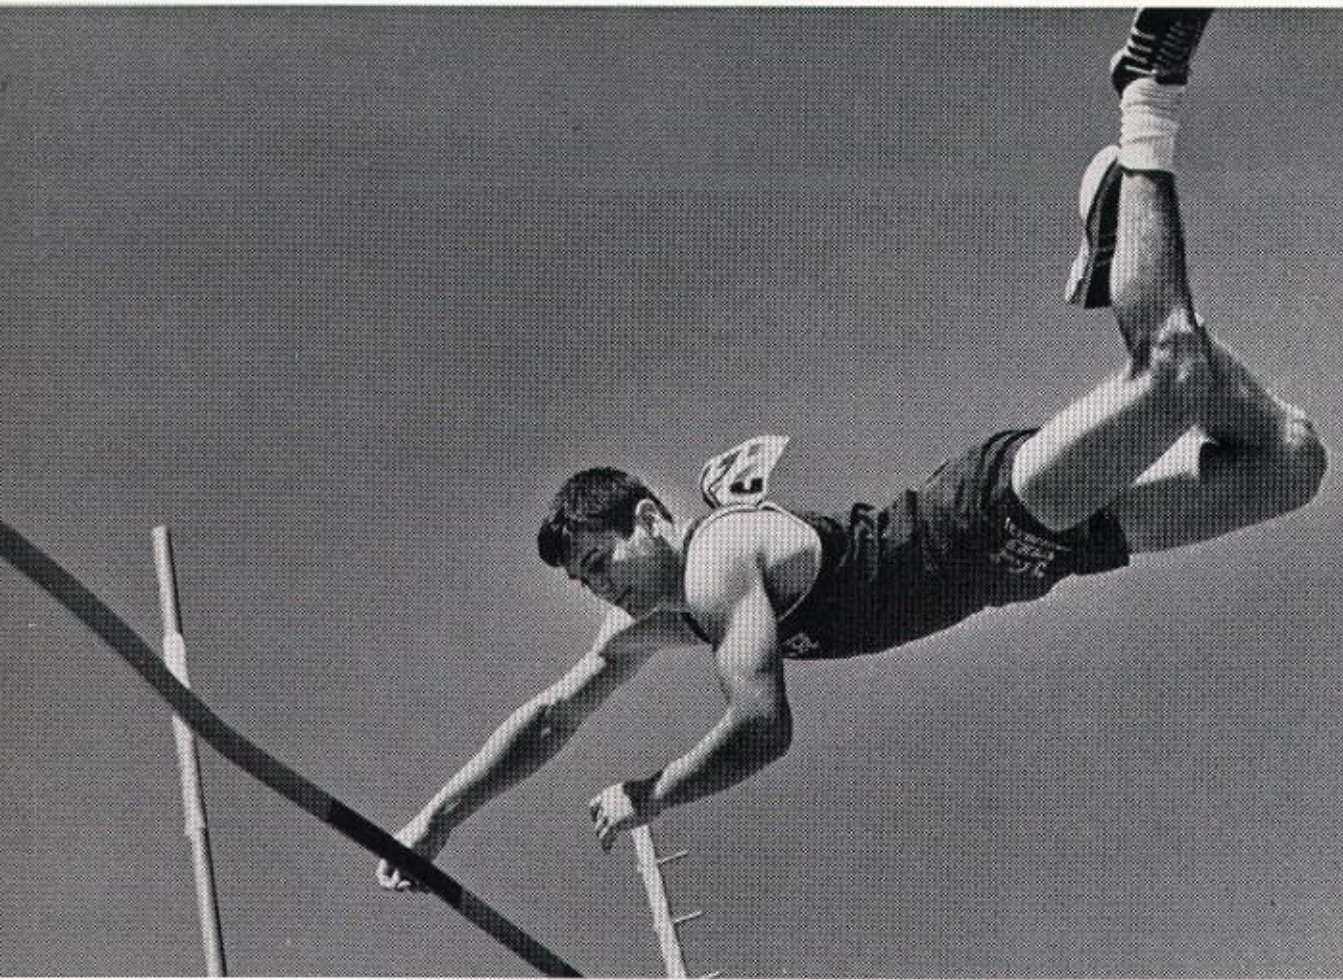

Joe Conti receives a first place medal for setting a State record in the 100 yd. dash.

IN ORBIT

Soph Mickey Anderson sets a school record with a leap of 21'5½" before a huge crowd.

FOLLOW THE LEADER

Jimmy Kraus leads Atherton harriers; Donnie Weis closes fast on inside lane.

BRINGING HOME THE BACON

Mile Relay team sets Regional and school record with a blistering 3:24.4. Front Row: Rocky Graf and Dave Brown. Back Row: Mike Kelly, Chuck Roberts and Joe Conti. Rocky Graf, regular anchor man, had to sit this one out with a pulled muscle.
